

Wireless_{WEEK}

CTIA Enterprise & Applications 2010

October 8 | 2010

OFFICIAL

SHOW DAILY

Bits & Bytes

- Myriad Group has been selected by Japan's SoftBank Mobile to customize and deliver key solutions in support of SoftBank's move to broaden its lineup of Android-powered smartphones and services. Myriad will develop SoftBank's MMS service S!Mail for Android.
- Jabra unveiled the Jabra WAVE, a new Bluetooth headset with an enhanced behind-the-ear wearing style. Featuring a new wind-noise reduction technology and Voice Guidance, the Jabra WAVE will be available in three designs exclusively at Verizon Wireless Communications stores nationwide beginning in November.
- Kudzu Interactive, owners of Snapfinger, has acquired LiveOnTheGo.com, a free online service that enables people to order and pay for food via the Web, iPhone, iPod Touch or BlackBerry. The acquisition adds more than 800 local independent restaurants from across the United States to Snapfinger's offering.
- Geodesic Limited struck a partnership with SHOUTcast to provide users with anytime access to an unlimited number of Internet radio stations.
- AuthenTec introduced new mobile identity management software, TrueSuite Mobile, designed to enhance the features and functions of AuthenTec smart sensors in mobile phones.
- OpenMarket has expanded its mobile payments capabilities to enable merchants to more effectively target consumers who are using their mobile phones for purchases. The expanded capabilities include WAP Billing and App Store Direct Operator Payments products. ●

CTIA Enterprise & Applications 2010

Wireless Week's Show Daily • October 8 | 2010

3